

invites parents, teachers and professionals to an evening with

Frances Hill

The Maelstrom Years

High IQ doesn't guarantee high EQ. As the teenage years approach, family relationships become strained because of the developing needs of gifted students. Their hypercritical sensitivity creates problems with parents and siblings. A quest for identity creates confusion within the individual and in their support team. The complexities of the digital age compound these difficulties. What is required is a social and emotional literacy program. This session explores ways of generating MSO's - Mutually Satisfying Outcomes.

Friday 21st September 2012

6pm doors open at 5.30pm

@ Alexander McMillan Room, Community House, Moray Place, Dunedin

COST: non-OAGC members gold coin donation/OAGC members FREE

Become an OAGC member online at: www.otagogifted.org.nz

or call Sarah 456 3522 for more details

Frances Hill, creator of the Alpha International Digital Portal, teaches internationally. She focuses on meeting the needs of gifted students who don't fit the system. She is the recipient of the SENG Award for services to gifted students and author of a series of books which have been published internationally.